

Individual Team Member Contribution

One of my main contributions to the team was helping keep everyone organized and communicating. I encouraged the group to meet and set up a Zoom meeting so we could discuss the project, clarify what needed to be completed, and make sure everyone understood the main topics we needed to cover. I also created the GitHub link that we used to upload and share our work.

One of the biggest challenges we faced was learning how to properly upload files and manage our documents through GitHub. At first, the process was confusing and caused some difficulty for the team, but we worked through the problems together. We shared what we were learning, helped each other troubleshoot, and eventually became more comfortable with the process. This experience showed me the importance of communication, teamwork, and patience when working through unfamiliar technical tasks. It also helped me see that even when a group runs into problems, working together and sharing responsibility can lead to a successful final result.